

Garden tools with the Sophie Conran touch

Burton & Ball launched a collection of polished stainless steel garden tools designed by Sophie Conran with women in mind.

All ergonomically advanced to suit the female hand, and including many practical features, they include a trowel and fork, scoop, sieve, dibber, weeder and secateurs, all with natural waxed beechwood handles, plus a range of stylishly packaged gift sets.

Sophie's famous parents are both enthusiastic gardeners so a garden has been a big part of her life from an early age. "Not surprisingly, coming from a family of designers, I have been sketching out ideas for products for as long as I can remember," she says. "One of the problems I face as a woman, when gardening, is that my hands are generally too small for standard tools. My designs specifically address this issue and I hope will add to the joy of gardening."
